She nicknames him Jack. Action-packed and fast-paced, it was pretty easy to fall into the story and get swept away. The atmosphere is well set and the storyline is interesting. The story started out good, and wound up a few pages later lacking the completion. She took to her calling without too much whining. One five minute session of arguing and disbelief is more than enough to tide her also brings her the spirit of a girl she went to school with who was killed in a hit and run, who needs help moving on.
